

PRIVATE SECTOR HUMANITARIAN ALLIANCE

A New Model for Investing in Global Humanitarian Preparedness, Community Resilience, and Business Continuity

What is the PSHA?

The Private Sector Humanitarian Alliance, with Google.org's support, is a multi-stakeholder community investing in preparedness before disasters occur.

Our global platform brings together corporations, foundations, humanitarian organizations, and local responders to mitigate risk, protect economic vitality, and reduce disaster recovery costs.

Community resilience is strongest when businesses invest collectively, in collaboration with experienced international humanitarian organizations. The PSHA provides the means to proactively invest in local community continuity via pooled funds and in-kind contributions.

How the PSHA Works

Working with leading humanitarian partners, the UN Office for the Coordination of Humanitarian Affairs and the International Federation of the Red Cross and Red Crescent Societies, the PSHA has crafted a portfolio of data-driven resilience programs in 25+ countries.

Companies invest ahead, facilitating an evolution from episodic disaster donation to deliberate resource allocation before floods, droughts, storms and other natural disasters strike. Pre-positioned support for rapid response leads to faster recovery for communities, infrastructure, supply chains, and commercial markets.

The PSHA provides corporate members with unique market intelligence reporting and custom statistical analysis of impact investments.

An Unprecedented Need for Private Sector Investment

Natural disasters are growing in frequency, severity, and cost. Humanitarian needs are rising, exposing the business community to costly disruption. Disasters affect employees, suppliers, customers, and the markets where companies operate and source.

Most corporate giving happens after a crisis makes the news. This generosity is needed but is often too late to reduce risk, protect livelihoods, or preserve development gains.

Through shared infrastructure, expert actionable intelligence, and quantitative analysis, the PSHA ensures that corporate resources reach local communities ahead of predictable disasters, reducing risk and destruction, and saving lives and business operations.
